P PRICE 2 CENTS

TWO LOBBYISTS ARE INDICTED

Third Partial Report of Grand Jury Implicates Seven.

BONDS FIXED AT $5,000 EACH

Demurrers Against Indictments of Senator Andrews and Sergeant-at-Arms Diegel Argued Before Judge Kinkead.

Columbus, O., June 12.—The names of two more lobbyists who were active for several weeks with secret conferences in the halls and committee rooms of the general assembly have been added to the lengthening list of men who are charged by the grand jury with being implicated in the corruption of the Ohio legislature.

J. V. Meader, of Cleveland, and L. C. Miller, of Akron, are the two men whose names were the last to be made public out of the seven senators and lobbyists indicted by the grand jury in its third partial report.

These men were strenuous in their opposition of the Haas bill, which licenses and regulates the business of salary loan agents and limits their profits to an 8 per cent return.

With Charles Anson Bond, former mayor of Columbus, they appeared in appearance at the trial.

After arguments by Bond's attorneys Judge Kinkead consented to fix the bond of the seven men last indicted at $5,000 each, and Miller and Bond immediately furnished this amount, while the four men who had put up $10,000 for their release were allowed to reduce the amount to $5,000.

Meader, however, explained that it would be impossible for him to give more than $1,000, so he was set free on that amount.

While the three indicted men were waiting for their bonds they listened to the arguments being made before Judge E. P. Kinkead upon demurrers to the indictments against Senator L. R. Andrews, of Ironton, and Sergeant-at-Arms Rodney J. Diegel, of Sandusky.

The demurrers were filed by Attorneys Belcher and Conner, assisted by a formidable array of counsel, and the arguments in this case were applicable to the joint indictments against Diegel and Senators George K. Cetone of Dayton, and Isaac E. Huffman of Oxford.

MAN CONFESSES CRIME

Wm. Johnson of South Haven Admits Burning House.

Another Man Has Just Finished Two Years' Sentence for the Offense.

Marshall, Mich., June 12.—If the confession of William Johnson of South Haven, in a letter received here is true, Albert Eaton has served two and a half years in prison for a crime committed by another.

Johnson, who says he is now living at a resort on Black river, just out of South Haven, confesses that he is guilty of arson, burglary and horse stealing. In 1907 he lived in Chicago. He claims that at that time he had trouble with his wife and for an assault he committed on her served six months in the workhouse. While he was in prison she secured a divorce.

Taking $800 of the money they had, she started up a millinery store in Gary, Ind. There she met Albert Eaton of Kalamazoo, who made a loan to her of $300, taking a mortgage on the stock. Later the millinery stock was moved to Marshall. Johnson says the goods were shipped in the name of Eaton.

He followed the stock to this place and located it. On March 30, 1908, he left Chicago for Marshall. He arrived at Battle Creek in the evening, secured a team and drove to Marshall. About 2:30 he entered the house and secured a trunk owned by Eaton containing about $150 worth of goods. This he put in the buggy, returned to the house and set it on fire. As the house started to burn he drove to Battle Creek and shipped the trunk to Chicago. He did not return direct to Chicago, but went to Indiana, where he claims he stole a team of horses, selling the team and the trunk in Chicago for $400.

He has spent most of his time since in Texas but returned to South Haven in the spring. At the end of his confession he dares the officers of Calhoun county to come and get him. Eaton, the man who was convicted of the offense, was released from prison recently.

White pines, Scotch pines, the catalpa, maples, spruces and firs are among the trees which may be seen there in different stages of maturity. No trees reserve were harmed by the cyclone.

DEAD IN RUINS OF BANK

Physician Wounded in Pursuit of Bandits Fleeing in Auto at Seaton.

Monmouth, Ill., June 12.—A body, believed to be that of one of five robbers who dynamited a bank at Seaton, was found in the ruins of the bank. The explosion of the dynamite charge set fire to the bank building, which, together with a block of small business houses, was destroyed. The only means of identifying the remains were a revolver and a watch found beside the body.

The four other robbers fled in an automobile and were pursued several miles by Dr. Everett in another car. He fired on them several times and in the return fire was struck by a seventy-two gun shot from the weapons of the escaping bandits. A telephone pole warded off the heavier part of the charge which struck the physician.

TAFT SILVER WEDDING

Second Anniversary of Kind for White House Occupants.

Washington, June 12.—On June 19 the president and Mrs. Taft will celebrate at the White House their silver wedding anniversary. This is the second celebration of a twenty-fifth wedding anniversary to be given by a president at the White House. Curiously both presidential couples were married in the same city—Cincinnati, O.

On New Year's Eve night of 1877 President and Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes, who were married in Cincinnati on the last day of the year 1852, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary at the White House. The President and Mrs. Taft were married on June 19, 1886, by the Rev. Dr. Moses A. Hoge in Cincinnati.

BAPTIST PASTOR DELIVERS H. S. BACCALAUREATE

At the M. E. church Sunday evening the first of the commencement exercises was presented when Rev. Pettit of the Baptist church delivered the baccalaureate address. His text was Psalm 144:12, "Our sons shall be as plants grown up in their youth, and our daughters as corner stones hewn after the fashion of a palace."

Rev. Pettit said, "The writer of this psalm recognizes his dependence on God. Prays for deliverance from his enemies, mingling praise with his petition. Then gives a picture of national blessedness and prosperity where God is thus recognized. While that picture includes national peace, full granaries and increased flocks, the first and most important part is indicated by our text. 'Our sons shall be as plants grown up in their youth, and our daughters as corner stones, hewn after the fashion of a palace.' In this the psalmist recognizes what all true students of human interests must admit, that the proper training and culture of the young is of first importance to the welfare and prosperity of the nation. No acquisition of wealth, no enlargement of commercial interests, no expansion of political power can compare with it. That our sons and daughters may be properly trained and thereby fitted for the responsibilities of life and citizenship, is of vital importance to every community."

"The figures that David uses are significant and may well form the basis for practical suggestion. 'Our sons shall be as plants,' not weeds nor thorns, but plants, useful, beautiful, fruitful, cultivated plants. 'Grown up in their youth,' carefully tended from the earliest beginnings of life. 'Our daughters shall be as corner stones, hewn after the fashion of a palace,' or as Perowne translates it, 'corner pillars sculptured to grace a palace.' They are not like rough, ill-shapen stones, but hewn, fitted to their place both for utility and beauty. 'Thus we have presented to us the culture and training of the young who are thereby prepared for their place and power in the world's work.'

"Now the plant has various parts, the roots, the trunk, the branches, the blossom and the fruit or seed, all must be cared for. 'Likewise the corner stone has various sides. Four sides will be hidden from view but they must be hewn and fitted to their places. The two surfaces which are exposed to view must have special attention for they are to be ornamental as well as useful.

"So the young men and the young women have various sides to their being. Let us look at them, not from the side of the multiplicity of life's relations and activities, but from the standpoint of man's three-fold nature. 'There is the body or the physical nature, with its muscles and nerves, its vital organs and its almost measureless possibilities. This is a phase of our being we cannot, with impunity, neglect nor abuse. Both for health and efficiency we need physical training.

"Then there is the mind or the intellectual nature with its reason, memory, will and its power to grapple with the great problems of life. Surely we must not lessen our endeavor to be the very best sort of men and women we can be in our intellectual attainments and efficiency.

"But there is also the heart or spiritual nature, that part of man's being which allies him with God and makes communion and fellowship with the infinite possible. And God has provided just as adequate means for the training and culture of this phase of our being as he has for the physical and mental. Indeed here is where the greatest emphasis should be placed, because this involves the highest faculties of the soul. As there is no being so exalted and glorious as God, it follows that to cultivate those qualities of the soul which bring us into fellowship with him is to develop the highest part of our being, and surely the highest should have precedence.

"And, moreover, this adds charm to all other culture. Other things being equal, he who has true, soul culture is a far better and more attractive man along both the physical and intellectual lines of life.

"This is an important age in which we live. It is a time of great material and intellectual advancement, a time when we need the balance wheel of trained soul power to keep the machinery of life running smoothly that it may turn out the finished product of a true individual, social and civic manhood.

"You, the graduating class of the high school, have been under wise and efficient training, calculated to lay the foundation of useful and successful lives. That training has cessarily had special reference to mind culture, with some attention to physical training and character building, for in the noble lives and wise counsel of your teachers there has been an influence constantly about you. Yet the emphasis has necessarily been on intellectual training. Let me therefore direct your attention to the means at hand for soul culture, without which we cannot have well-rounded symmetrical characters. The responsibility is yours for a well-balanced, fully-equipped manhood with which to do your part in life.

"School culture has two centers. So also has soul culture. First there is the teacher. You are dependent on him. He guides your steps through the fields of learning. You go to him with the questions that trouble you. He gives himself to you in teaching and you give yourself to him for instruction. He gives. You receive. You trust him, follow his directions, learn from him.

"Jesus Christ is the Great Teacher. He alone is qualified to teach us moral and spiritual truth of the highest import. Being both God and Man He has infinite knowledge and understands humanity; He has infinite wisdom and knows its relation to human experience; He has infinite love and can get close to human hearts. He is one with God and one with humanity. He said to his disciples, 'Learn of Me,' and was known among them as Rabbi or Teacher.

"It is for us to put ourselves under Him; to give ourselves just as fully and implicitly to Him as you did to the teachers of the school from which you are now graduating. We may receive instructions from those whom He has taught, but we must be sure that they are His, are led by His Spirit and are teaching the things He taught. If true teachers they will lead us directly to Him, for it is Him we must come and from Him we must learn.

"The second center of culture is the text book. We must have books which contain the information we need; books in each department, not for reference, merely, but for study. These are quite as important as the teachers.

We have a text book in our school with Christ, or many text books, bound in one volume, the Bible. Its authority is absolute, its teaching comprehensive. Not that it teaches all that we would like to know but all that is necessary to make life true and beautiful and to attain to life's noblest end. The Bible is the most important book in the world's literature, and should win the approval of our hearts for its exalted teaching and its high literary excellence. Let me magnify this Word of God and show you some of its beauty and worth.

"It contains unexcelled examples of literary merit. Would you have exalted thought? It is here. Indeed the greatest thoughts of the greatest literary geniuses have their roots in the teachings of this book. It has contributed more largely than any thing else, to the inspiration of the world's greatest and best thinkers. But let us go to the book itself and read.

"Note this sublime passage from the nineteenth psalm. 'The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament sheweth its handy work. Day unto day uttereth speech and night unto night sheweth knowledge. There is no speech nor language where their voice is not heard,' etc. Or take this burst of confidence from the ninety-seventh psalm. 'Clouds and darkness and judgment are the habitation of his throne.' Or this from the one hundred twenty-fifth psalm. As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so Jehovah is round his people from this time forth and forever more. So we might go through the

NORMAL WORK DEMONSTRATED BY STUDENTS

A remarkable demonstration of the work being done at the Normal College in the department of the domestic arts was put on exhibition for a few hours Friday afternoon, in the space of which limited time the rooms were filled with citizens and students inspecting the handwork of the classes. The rooms were uniformly attractive with their immaculate appointments and the trail of the careful housewife who has taken unto herself all of the conveniences and appliances which modern ingenuity has devised, was over all.

On a tastefully set table in the first room was a table laid as though for three persons, but designed instead for three meals, and the food provided for this particular breakfast, lunch and dinner totalled the amount of food "required by an average man at average labor for one day." They consisted of three-fourths pounds of beef, one-half pound of bread, one pound of potatoes, one-fourth pound of butter and three and one-half pints of water. A very tempting sight was the invalid trays, on each of which glowed a fragrant rose or bunch of pink clover, and containing cunning little portions of the most delectable food.

Not so agreeable to contemplate were strips of cloth which had been colored by illegitimate substances in food. De Menthe cherries had produced green-colored cloth; ketchup, an orange shade, peach jam, brown, and stick candy, red. Exhibits from this department were also held in certain rooms in the new addition.

In the dining-room was a faultlessly appointed table, which looked highly engaging in all its features of glimmering damask and silver.

Beyond was the laundry and no part of the exhibit showed a more thorough application of cleverness to the solving of domestic problems. Along the wall were ironing boards, some of them sheathed in covers and flat against the wall, presenting their six-days-out-of-the-week appearance, while others were down, held firm underneath by a rest and fitted with a shirt-waist board which in turn could be turned up against the wall. Porcelain tubs there were; likewise a drying device which allowed of tall frames, rolling out, being hung with clothes and then pushed inside the metal heating apartment to dry. Examples of how excellently this useful branch of housewifery has been mastered were visible on all sides, not only displayed about the laundry but in the costumes by the young ladies of the departments.

The product of the needle, the sewing-machine, the crochet hook were very impressive. The spotless, well-fitting white suits worn by the students were made by themselves as their first machine work. The designs of these and the colors employed were capital and the articles so fashioned were of a considerable range.

Those taking the three-year course have twelve weeks in millinery and hats for adults and tiny models, all eminently fashionable and impressive, were displayed. Other articles there were in profusion, such as trousseaus, crocheted afghans, baby shoes, pillows, napkins rings, cushions,—the things in short which an individual or a house principally needs, and all executed with nicety of workmanship and cleverness of design.

At two points in the progress of the company through the rooms they were regaled with excellent coffee and two little cakes.

The large amounts of food so temptingly prepared were to be distributed later among different families.

ORDER EARLY

The Ypsilanti Industrial Association wishes to have all residents who are going to entertain soldiers during encampment week know that provisions at that time will be difficult to secure and in view of that fact it is imperative that orders for meat and groceries should be placed early. If definite orders cannot be predicted at this time grocers and meat dealers should be advised of places they will be called upon to supply in order that they may afford the service efficiently that will be required during the three big days next week.

URNS OUT FOR AUTOS AND IS STRUCK BY CAR

A serious accident was narrowly averted Sunday morning when Henry Brooks of River street attempted to cross the D., J. & C. Ry. track in front of a moving car. As it was the horse was killed instantly.

Mr. Brooks was driving along the road about one mile east of town when in attempting to get out of the way of two autos he drove in front of an electric car which was approaching from the rear. The horse was struck and killed and Mr. Brooks thrown from the milk wagon. He escaped without any serious injury.

ONE OF YPSILANTI'S OLDEST RESIDENTS PASSES AWAY

Cornelius B. Earl passed away early Sunday morning at his home on East Cross street. His death was rather unexpected although he had been in failing health for a long time. Had he lived till August, he would have been 96 years old. He was born in Seneca county in the state of New York, but had lived in Ypsilanti almost continuously since 1832. The deceased was the oldest member of the Presbyterian church in Ypsilanti, having joined when a very young man. Mr. and Mrs. Earl celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary last August. Besides his wife, he is survived by nine children: Edgar, Isabella, Carrie and Guernsey in Ypsilanti; Arthur, who lives in Jackson, Mrs. Hattie Hensen of Battle Creek, Mrs. Emma Temple of Traverse City, Mrs. C. L. Fleming of Madison, Wisconsin, and Mrs. E. T. Austin of Sterling, Illinois.

The funeral will be held from his late residence at 411 E. Cross street Tuesday afternoon at 2:30.

GRAND JURY HAS FOUND NEW LEAD

Evidence in Dynamiting Cases Takes Unexpected Turn.

FRENCH LICK HOTEL EXPLOSION

Certain Testimony Tends to Connect Bridge and Structural Iron Workers with Outrage Supposedly Committed by Gambler.

Indianapolis, June 12.—The most important evidence which has been elicited by the grand jury in the dynamiting cases and which is alleged to lead unmistakably into the inner council of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers was secured on Friday of last week and is being followed by the prosecutor with indications of large developments.

The most important witness in this branch of the inquiry has disappeared but the officers are seeking him everywhere and descriptions of him have been sent out, and, if found, he will be arrested.

The story dates back to the dynamiting of the new hotel building that was being erected at French Lick and which the public was led to believe was the result of revenge on the part of someone who had lost heavily at gambling. It now develops that the dynamite was set off by a member of the iron workers, that warning was given that the building would be blown into the air if union men were not employed on it, that an affidavit was secured from the man who exploded the dynamite and at this juncture, it is claimed, Tom Taggart caused the investigation to be discontinued. The grand jury has gone into the matter and is trying to get the man who made the affidavit, but he has disappeared.

On the day following the explosion at French Lick Detective Morgan, of this city, went there and began an investigation. He learned that a member of the iron workers' executive board had been to French Lick and that following his visit an iron worker and a member of the union went to French Lick and represented himself as a non-union man and got employment on the building. This man was taken into custody by Morgan, but he denied exploding the dynamite. Taggart learned that the man was in custody and caused the investigation to be dropped.

One week later, Detective Gerber, who alternated with Detective Morgan, went to French Lick and, hearing the dynamiting discussed and not knowing that Morgan had been on the case, began an investigation, but had not proceeded far when Taggart interfered, saying that no real damage had been done and he did not care to have the affair sifted. The detective, it is said, reported the conclusion that Taggart did not care to get entangled with the iron workers' union and for this reason called off the inquiry.

Detective Morgan appeared before the grand jury on Friday and told what he had learned in connection with his investigation. One of the statements attributed to a member of the union was that they "could knock down more in a minute than them fellows could build in a week."

The authorities are said to be satisfied that the outrage was planned at French Lick and that men high up in the councils of the organization were concerned in it. Taggart will be called to tell what he knows about the affair.

A NEED OF INTROSPECTION.
It is difficult for newspapers and other periodicals even to be consistent. That is, it is difficult to square the editorial utterances and policy, if they stand for anything, with the counting-house policy, as illustrated in the advertising columns. But this is not so difficult perhaps as to square the utterances in the news columns with the utterances in the other columns. This is for the reason that most newspapers do not have the power of selection of the news items. The great central news-gathering institutions gather the news and send it out and put the emphasis where they think it will sell best. It almost always arrives late, and the chance for modification and the making of it all over is limited.

But it is amusing to see how inconsistent a periodical can be. Leslie's Weekly, for example, puts out a lot of good stuff. It brings home to the people by reason of its excellent pictorial policy many an impression which would be utterly lost in the plain printed page. We do not know who owns it, but it sounds as if it were owned by the "interests" so called. Its "Jasper's Hints to Money Makers" and its editorial utterances are usually coming to the rescue of the poor down-trodden public corporations. In a recent issue for example its leading editorial is an attempt to annihilate the suggestion of some up-country paper that Woodrow Wilson, the present governor of New Jersey and former president of Princeton University, be the democratic nominee for president in 1912. We have noted that publications which are conceded to be bound to the interests have been voicing this same sort of sentiment and attempting to persuade the people of this country that Governor Wilson would be a bad candidate. The only things urged against him is his lack of experience in governmental affairs and in large business affairs, that he is a mere theorist, and as such would be a dangerous man in the White House. But we are disposed to believe that he has proven himself entirely too practical a politician in putting some of his theories into practice and keeping out of the United States Senate the conceded candidate of the interests and substituting in his place a better candidate, at least a candidate not pledged, ahead to support those measures which the interests are ever pushing through Congress.

But in the same issue, in a department entitled "The Plain Truth," which always follows the editorial and occupies a part of the editorial page, Leslie's has this to say: "An able financier is President James G. Cannon of the Fourth National bank of New York. We hope his business proclivities did not desert him when he told some Omaha ministers that, as a result of the Men and Religion Forward movement, papers and magazines were going to 'play up' religion as it had never been done before. The magazine editors who have been muck-raking all their lives are seeing that the thing must end," said Mr. Cannon. "We know of no happier way for a muckraking publication to reform its ways than by beginning to 'play up' religion. Aside from any other work the Men and Religion Forward movement may accomplish, if it reforms our press in this respect, its organization will have been worth while."

And yet in the same issue Leslie's carries at least two pages of tobacco and liquor advertising. Cigarettes and liquor are two of the things which those who believe in the church and in religion and in the child find it necessary to constantly fight. The magazines have been called muck-rakers because they have mirrored before the public the illegal acts of the interests. Some of them perhaps have published things which were not true. Whether they knew they were not true when they published them or not, we do not know. But we are fully persuaded that the magazines as such have performed a greater public service within the past five years at least, in showing the public just what dangers confronted them politically, than have all of the publications like Leslie's and all of the newspapers of the country combined. And the pendulum is swinging back toward clean journalism, and editorial policy which does not dodge nor side-step, nor apologize nor compromise itself, to conform to the counting-house system of the publisher. These same magazines which Leslie's is pleased to refer to as muckrakers will not sell their advertising columns with the stuff which finds such ready entrance into the columns of Leslie's.

We are all apt to fall into the error of the old Quaker, who remarked that "They are all queer but thee and me, Betsy, and thee is a little queer." A need of introspection is often present.

"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a distemper. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it. Mrs. O. V. Rock, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

A GREAT PHYSICIAN

What He Said of Germs that Cause Disease
M. Pasteur, sometimes called the Greatest physician often said: "I believe that we shall one day rid the world of all diseases that are caused by germs."

Of all the diseases caused by germs, catarrh is one of the most persistent and loathsome. Catarrh can be cured, but only by destroying the germs.

Breathe HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) and cure catarrh by killing the germs. The HYOMEI method is the only sensible method, because you breathe the highly antiseptic and germ killing air directly over the entire membrane infested with catarrh germs.

HYOMEI will cure catarrh. There may be some complicated cases where it will fail, but the chances are ten to one in its favor, and the sufferer from catarrh takes no risk, because HYOMEI is a guaranteed remedy, and if it doesn't cure, Duane Spalsbury will refund the purchase price.

HYOMEI will also give instant relief and cure bronchitis, coughs, colds and croup. A complete outfit, including hard rubber pocket inhaler, costs $1.00. If you now own a Hyomei inhaler you can get a bottle of HYOMEI for 50 cents.

SORE FEET GO

Duane Spalsbury Lands the Agency for Ezo, Already the Greatest Remedy for Painful Feet.

Rejoice and be glad all ye residents of Ypsilanti who suffer from sore, painful, burning or smarting feet, for Duane Spalsbury now sells Ezo, the different remedy that banishes all misery from the feet and makes them feel fine in almost no time.

Ezo is a refined ointment, very pleasant to use, and a large glass jar only costs 25 cents.

It surely is the finest thing on earth for swollen or aching feet, and it promptly extracts the pain and soreness from corns, bunions and callouses.

If you want a pair of comfortable feet that won't give you any bother throughout a strenuous day get Ezo and rub it in.

And Ezo is mighty good for other things too, sunburn for instance, and chafing, and is very soothing and healing in skin diseases. Only 25 cents.

"Would you have vivid imagery? What more striking than this from the thirty-seventh chapter of Ezekiel's prophecy. 'The hand of Jehovah was upon me and he brought me out in the Spirit of Jehovah and set me out down in the midst of a valley; and it was full of bones. And he caused me to pass by them round about; and behold there were very many and they were very dry. And he said unto me Son of Man can these bones live? And I answered O Lord Jehovah, thou knowest. Again he said unto me, Prophecy over these bones, and say unto them, O ye dry bones hear the word of Jehovah. Thus saith the Lord Jehovah unto these bones: behold I will cause breath to enter into you and ye shall live. And I will lay sinews upon you, and will bring flesh upon you and cover you with skin, and put breath in you and ye shall live; and ye shall know that I am Jehovah.'"

"Turn to that exquisite bit of imagery in the fifteenth chapter of John,

Pure in the Can

Pure in the Baking

Do you know that Baking Powder undergoes a chemical reaction in the process of baking which entirely changes the nature of the original substance? It's a fact.

One of the greatest authorities on Chemistry in the country found that a loaf of bread made from a quart of flour, leavened with Cream of Tartar Baking Powder, contained 45 grains more Rochelle Salts than is contained in one Sedlitz Powder.

Remember, this drug was not in the can. It was formed by the chemical reaction that took place in baking.

That is why so many baking powders which produce impurities in the baking can be advertised as "absolutely pure." It may be pure in the can, but it is not necessarily pure in the food.

CALUMET is absolutely free from every impurity. Food leavened with it contains no Tartaric Acid, Rochelle Salts, Alum, Lime or Ammonia. It is chemically correct.

CALUMET is the only high-grade baking powder sold at a moderate price. Do not confuse it with the cheap and big can kinds, or the high-priced Trust brands. It stands alone.

"I am the vine, ye are the branches." How beautifully it sets forth the intimate relation of Christ and his people. So in both Old and New Testament we find many beautiful and forceful figures.

"Would have deep emotion?" Turn to the fifty-first psalm and you will find the confession of a soul stirred to the very depths, the outcry of a heart that loathes the sin of which it is guilty, the prayer of a believing spirit which seeks and finds forgiveness and rest in God.

"In the twenty-third psalm you will find the heart's confidence breathed forth in those beautiful and well-known words, 'Jehovah is my Shepherd, I shall not want.'"

"You will find an outburst of joyful praise in the one hundred third psalm, 'Bless the Lord, O, my soul and all that is within me bless his holy name.'"

"The chief charm and value of the Bible as our spiritual text book are found, however, in the fact that it is our Father's legacy to us, his will and testament in revelation and promise.

"In its revelation He makes known to us the things we need to know. He reveals ourselves, our own hearts; their sin and helplessness; their condemnation and death. He shows us what we are, what we may be, in character, life and destiny, how that from the depths of sin we may rise to the heights of glory.

"He shows us Himself, in His Majesty and Holiness, His power and wisdom, His love and condescension. How that from the heights of glory

He came down to earth; became a man; lived and worked and taught among men; suffered and died for man; rose from the dead, ascended to heaven and sits at the right hand of the majesty on high; that he is coming again to reward His own to establish His kingdom, to reign in righteousness on the earth.

"He reveals the world to come in its final and fixed contrasts; its relation to the world that now is; the possibility and means of our attaining the highest blessedness therein.

"He gives us promises, exceeding great and precious. He promises his presence and power in all the experiences of life; peace, rest joy, victory, in him; transformation into his image that we may be channels of his power, fellow workers with him in his great purpose for man; an inheritance 'incorruptible and undefiled and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven,' with its love and fellowship and service.

"He gives us instruction also as to how we may obtain and keep and enjoy these great blessings. How through faith, submission and obedience we may have Him and having Him have all."

IF YOU HAVE A SICKLY YOUNGSTER TRY THIS FREE

The family with young children that is without sickness in the house now and then is rare, and so it is important that the head of the household should know what to do in the little emergencies that arise. A child with a serious ailment needs a doctor, it is true, but in the majority of instances, as any doctor knows, the child suffers from some intestinal trouble, usually constipation.

There is no sense in giving it a pill or a remedy containing an opiate, nor is flushing of the bowels to be always recommended. Rather give it a small dose of a mild, gentle laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which, by cleaning out the bowels and strengthening the little stomach muscles, will immediately correct the trouble.

This is not alone our opinion but that of Mrs. N. H. Mead of Freeport, Kans., whose granddaughter has been taking it successfully and of Mrs. J. R. Whiting of Lena, Wis., who gives it to her children and takes it herself. It is sold in fifty cent and one dollar bottles at every drug store, but if you want to test it in your family before you buy it send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will forward a supply free of charge.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 34 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.
